

Health and Diet - September 13, 2004

Everyone overindulges from time to time, but emotional eating triggered by stressful situations can lead you away from healthy eating habits. If a stressful work day has you reaching into the cupboard, go for a brisk walk, call a friend, write in a journal, or take a long hot bath. Find an alternate behavior that works for you and practice, practice, practice.